

Unpacking RESILIENCE and understanding COMPLEXITY WORKSHOP

Using soft systems methodology and other participatory methods to engage in complex problems

FACILITATORS:

Dr Hartmut Fuenfgeld is a Senior Research Fellow and Acting Director of the Centre for Urban Research in the School of Global, Urban and Social Studies at RMIT University, Melbourne, Australia. Hartmut has over ten years of experience in research and capacity building on climate change, sustainability and local governance planning with local government and communities in Australia, Europe, Africa and Asia.

Alianne Rance is a research officer at RMIT University. She is currently undertaking State Government funded research on adaptation in the community sector, and a PhD on the considerations of climate risk in property development at RMIT University.

Thursday 12th June 2014
11.00am – 4.00pm

RMIT University
Ballarat Rd
Hamilton

Learn ways to navigate tricky and complex issues?

Soft Systems Methodology stems from social learning and teaches techniques to manage 'wicked problems'. The workshop will entail applying scenarios, providing on the ground practice of Soft Systems Methodologies through engaging activities.

LIGHT LUNCH PROVIDED

For further information and to register contact SGGPCP on 555 18563 or email Melanie.russell@wdhs.net

Register NOW – places may be limited

